Report from Vice-Chair Communications

Jay Porter

- The Engineering Technology Division page is still operational and can be found at <http://www.engtech.org>.
- The ETD site requires continued maintenance and I am asking the officers from the represented groups (ETD, ETC, and ECETDHA) to continue monitoring the website and sending updates to the new Vice-Chair Communications. Please remember to send your updates so that edits and changes can be made in a timely manner.
- With the change-over in website administration to the new Vice-Chair, Communications (VCC), the following changes will need to be made to the ETD website:
 - Move the webpage to a new site. One possibility would be for ETD to independently own and operate a WordPress website. Another possibility would be to host the website through ASEE. A third would be for the new VCC to host the page at their institution.
 - Assume control of the domain name. It is currently licensed to Texas A&M through GKG and expires in 2023. TAMU can transfer the name to either another institution, to the new VCC or to ASEE depending on how the new website will be hosted.
 - Work with JET to determine how the JET website will continue to be maintained. One alternative would be for JET to independently contract for a web presence or try to host through ASEE. I will try to meet with JET at the conference and let them know.
- As the transition of website control occurs, I am happy to support the new webmaster. I can be contacted at jporter@tamu.edu. It is important that we move on the changes above quickly to ensure that the ETD website continues to be maintained, updated, and functional.

Information Regarding this years Virtual Format:

June 1st Q&A with Patti Greenawalt

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=CKwWfTH-bDc>

Additional Instructions and Training Videos will be provided in Early July for both Authors and Moderators. I will distribute that information as soon as I get it from ASEE.

There are two types of virtual formats for the sessions, Webinars and Meetings. Each technical session is a Webinar with a moderator, both the chair and the moderator will have control of the meeting. Moderators will give the presenter control of the session during the talk, which will follow the typical in-person format of a 15-minute presentation and 5-minute Q&A. The moderator will also control the questions through the chat feature. The Meetings do not have moderators, chairs have the authority to initiate a meeting, I have delegated that authority to the individuals who requested the meeting.

Summary,

I would like to thank the Co-Chair Vukica Jovanovic for her work assigning reviewers. I have been away most of May and June and she has stepped in and addressed many questions from Authors regarding the review process, glitches uploading drafts, etc. Vukica will be more than ready to step of to the Chair position for next year's conference in Minnesota. As always Patti Greenawalt from ASEE has been extremely helpful, her normal turn-around time for the many questions I have had was about 15 minutes. Of course, I would also like to thank Marilyn Dyrud who provided me with valuable historical documentation regarding paper review rubrics, and best paper selection.

I look forward to seeing the entire ASEE and ETD community in person for next year's conference in Minnesota.

Of the 49 abstracts submitted, 43 authors submitted papers, with 5 withdrawn and 1 rejected. Two others were removed from the proceedings due to no-shows.

For the first time, CIEC ETD papers underwent a regular peer review. The process will be revised for 2023 and aim for more equitable distribution.

ETD attendees accounted for about 30% of total registrations.

2023

The conference is scheduled for Charleston, South Carolina, on February 8-10, 2023, with ETD responsible for general conference organization and implementation. The management team conducted a site visit on May 2 (although I was unable to attend).

ETD Mini-Grants Report
Minneapolis, MN
June 2022

Prepared by Marilyn A. Dyrud

2018-2020

All projects have been completed, reports submitted and available on the engineering tech website, and funds disbursed. Three recipients will present at the 2023 CIEC conference, as the session for 2022 was cancelled (2 had funding withdrawn and 1 came down with Covid).

2021-2023

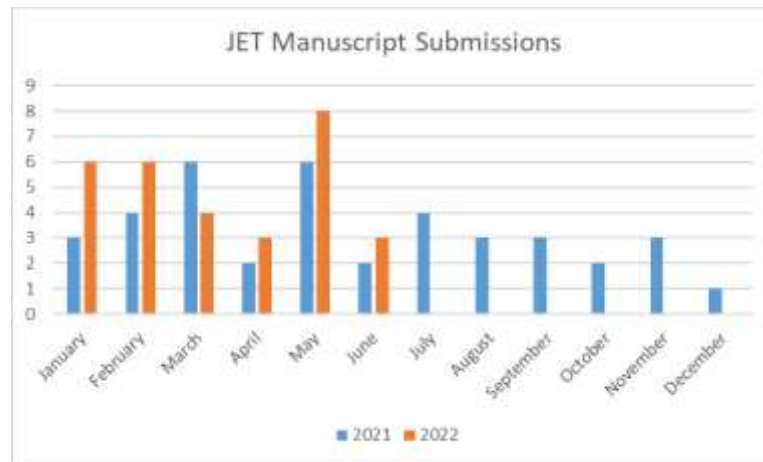

The two recipients are currently still working on their project; one will be completed in August and one in February. Both will present at the 2023 CIEC, and 1 plans to submit a paper to the Journal of Engineering Technology.

Future Plans

The program coordinator respectfully requests that ETD fund another mini-grants cycle. In the past, this has amounted to $15,000. If approved, the coordinator will announce the new cycle in September, to allow for a December 31 deadline and to recruit 3 board members to serve as proposal evaluators.

RE: ETAC Update

Highlights of ETAC activities are below.

ACCREDITATION REVIEWS

In the 2022 cycle (being completed in July 2022), the Engineering Technology Accreditation Commission evaluated programs at 53 institutions. All programs were evaluated via a “virtual” modality. Final accreditation actions will be decided in July during the summer commission meetings.

The forecast for the 2023 cycle is for 50 institutions, with seven institutions and a total of 10 programs as initial accreditation reviews.

CRITERIA CHANGES

Mechatronics: The comment period for the draft program criteria has ended. The draft criteria are expected to be brought before the commission in July for approval and forwarding to the ETAD for final approval and implementation in fall 2023.

ETAC Communications with Institutions

A split Instructional Representative workshop model continued. Part I was conducted virtually in February/March and focused on self-study preparation and interactions with the AMS and the team chair/team approval process. Part II will be conducted in late July or early August and focus on evaluation preparations. Also a separate Instructional Representative workshop was conducted for those programs undergoing an interim review and focused on the preparation of the progress report submitted in June.

OTHER ETAC ACTIVITIES

Diversity remains an issue for ETAC, for instance few women serve as commissioners. Ultimately, this rests with the member societies to nominate a diverse slate of commissioners. The ETAC nomination committee has been active in pushing societies to provide more diversity—gender, race and perspective.

The ETAC is need of a new public member. The nominating committee was unable to find a willing and qualified nominee. If anyone has a suggestion, please forward it to me as soon as possible. The public member cannot be a member of any ABET member society or otherwise affiliated with specific professions, by either training or practice, accredited by ABET. See <https://www.abet.org/etac-the-value-of-a-public-member/> for more information.

Respectfully Submitted,
